Seamless one-piece tops · Solid wood cabinets · Custom widths to 72"+

Alba

72" extra-wide double basin — bright oak

Two basins, one seamless stone, zero morning queues.

Alba stretches 72 inches of wall-hung cabinetry under a single slab of white sintered stone. Two rectangular basins are hot-bent into the same piece — no seams, no silicone lines, nowhere for grime to settle. The solid wood cabinet hangs in a light oak finish so the bathroom reads larger and cleaning takes one pass of a mop. Two mixer taps mount in factory pre-drilled holes. For developers and hotel projects, the width suits standard double-basin layouts while the one-piece top keeps installation to placing a single unit.

Layout	72" (180 cm) double-basin; extra-wide customs available
Basin	One-piece hot-bent white sintered stone, 2 integrated rectangular basins; tap holes pre-drilled for mainstream mixers
Cabinet	Floating solid wood, moisture-proof, light oak, handleless drawers
Mirror	Pairs with round mirrors or LED touch mirror cabinet (anti-fog optional)
Hardware	Kubo / DTC or equivalent-grade slides and hinges
Custom	Finish, width and basin layout to project drawings

Noce

72" extra-wide double basin — dark walnut hotel

Hotel-suite symmetry in dark walnut and stone.

Noce takes the 72-inch double vanity into darker territory. The solid wood cabinet comes in a deep walnut stain, wall-hung with a shadow gap beneath it. The countertop is a single piece of beige sintered stone, hot-bent with two oval basins worked into the slab — the surface flows from deck to basin without a joint. Brushed brass-look taps and warm sconce light pick up the wood grain. Two full stations, one seamless top, and a unit that arrives as one piece and mounts as one piece.

Basin	One-piece hot-bent beige sintered stone, 2 integrated oval basins; tap holes pre-drilled for mainstream mixers

Sole

Floating warm oak — terracotta

Warm oak, terracotta tile, morning light.

Sole is a floating oak vanity built for warm bathrooms. The solid-wood cabinet hangs off the wall in a mid-tone oak finish; above it sits one piece of white sintered stone with the basin hot-bent straight into the top. Against a terracotta tile backsplash and a round brass-framed mirror, the whole wall glows at sunrise. There are no basin rims to scrub and no silicone beads to yellow — the curve from countertop into basin is one continuous surface. Sole suits compact master baths where wood warmth does the decorating and the stone does the working.

Nero

High-contrast dark — black wood, dark stone

Black wood, dark stone, brass. Nothing sterile.

Nero answers the all-white bathroom. The solid wood cabinet is finished near-black, floating with a recessed shadow line beneath. The top is dark grey sintered stone, hot-bent into one piece with an integrated basin — water sheets off the stone and the single dark surface hides daily wear. A brushed brass-look tap and warm sconces break the black with points of light. The seamless basin means no pale silicone lines to discolor against the dark top. Nero extends the Ombra line's high-contrast language for buyers who want the dark bathroom done in real stone, not printed laminate.

Luna

Japandi — walnut, travertine-look stone

Japandi calm: walnut, travertine-look stone, soft light.

Luna is Vora's Japandi answer. A floating dark-walnut cabinet carries a travertine-look sintered stone top with the basin hot-bent into the same slab — the stone's soft veining does the decorating, so the cabinetry stays quiet. Low, handleless drawers keep the silhouette horizontal; a large round mirror and linen-soft daylight finish the spa feeling. One material flows from counter to basin, and solid wood grain is the only pattern in the room. The travertine look comes with a wipe-clean sintered stone surface and a moisture-proof solid wood cabinet for steamy rooms.

Aura

Backlit LED mirror vanity

Backlit mirror, floating cabinet, five-star mornings.

Aura puts the mirror to work. A large backlit LED mirror washes the wall in warm light — touch control on the glass, anti-fog available for steamy mornings. Below it floats a light-grey solid wood cabinet, and the countertop is white sintered stone with the basin hot-bent into one piece. No basin edge to clean around; the glow from the mirror doubles as a night light. Aura is the full 2026 upgrade in one unit: specialty mirror, seamless stone, wall-hung storage. It fits the master bath that needs to feel like a hotel at 6 a.m. and still wipe down in a minute.

Layout	Catalogue widths 60–120 cm, single integrated basin
Basin	One-piece hot-bent white sintered stone; tap hole pre-drilled for mainstream mixers

Riga

Fluted reeded cabinet — walnut grooves

Fluted wood, seamless stone. Light plays on every groove.

Riga is built around the cabinet front everyone is photographing right now: vertical fluted grooves cut into solid walnut, catching light and shadow across the whole vanity. The top stays calm — one piece of white sintered stone with the basin hot-bent into the slab, no seams to interrupt the texture below. A round brass-framed mirror and a brushed brass-look tap warm up the wood. The grooves are cut deep enough to read from across the room, shallow enough to wipe clean. For buyers chasing the fluted trend without the upkeep of carved timber, Riga pairs a high-texture front with a zero-seam stone top and a moisture-proof solid wood body.

Layout	Catalogue widths 60–120 cm, single integrated basin
Basin	One-piece hot-bent white sintered stone; tap hole pre-drilled for mainstream mixers

The hot-bend, done in-house

Every basin in this collection is hot-bent from a single slab of sintered stone — in our own Foshan workshop, never outsourced. The counter flows into the basin with no seam, no joint and no glue line: water sheets off, grime has nowhere to settle, and there is no silicone to yellow.

- One-piece tops from 60 to 120 cm catalogue widths, extra-wide double basins to 72"+ on custom order.
- Tap holes pre-drilled at the factory for mainstream mixer specs — hole size confirmed with the buyer at order time.
- Solid wood cabinets with moisture-proof treatment; Kubo / DTC or equivalent-grade hardware.
- LED touch-control mirrors with optional anti-fog pair with every model.
